In a conversation about his teaching and preaching style, Michael Curry notes with a laugh that hymns and songs of faith were always a part of the mix. "I learned what I believed in the songs I heard my family—especially my grandmother—sing. We sang our faith every day."

Out of that strong foundation, Bishop Curry shares the music of his childhood—the songs that have grown with him to shape an adult and vibrant faith.

Week 2: Reflections on the Resurrection

During the Easter season, Sermons That Work is pleased to present reflections from some of the newest bishops of The Episcopal Church on the resurrection of our Lord. Check back each week for a brief exploration of how Jesus Christ's rising from the grave changes everything. To listen to this reflection, scan the QR code on this page and subscribe to the Sermons That Work podcast.

Spring has always been my favorite season of the year. Winters were long in the small New England town where I lived. Spring signaled new life and growth as melting snow gave way to crocuses pushing their way upward and recess back on the playground. As a young girl, spring also brought preparations for Easter, which included Lenten fasting and spring cleaning. Each year, the house would be turned upside down as curtains, linens, walls, baseboards, windows, and cupboards were scrubbed clean until all sparkled and appeared new once again.

For me and my four sisters, it also signified throwing off the drab outerwear of winter and donning new spring coats (all in different pastel colors of course), hats, patent leather shoes, and matching dresses. A feeling of newness and possibility filled the air. As I got older, I began to understand that Easter was more than new clothes and patent leather shoes, more than straw filled baskets brimming with cream-filled chocolate covered eggs and lollipops shaped like bunnies to end our Lenten fasts. Those feelings of newness and possibility were part of God's story, the story my parents shared and lived each day.

My parents were resurrection people. They lived as best they could the life that Jesus embodied. They made sacrifices to ensure my sisters and I had what we needed (and then some) to grow and thrive. They placed their trust in the Resurrection, secure in the knowledge that God was doing something new in their lives and in the lives of their children. Years later, I discovered my mother had gone without a new coat for years so that me and my sisters could have new clothes at Easter. When my grandmother died, my parents invited my grandfather to live with us, so that he would not be alone in his retirement, giving up the bedroom they had just built for themselves. My parents' generosity and service, more powerfully than words, demonstrated to our family and community the difference between what counts and what doesn't. My parents placed their faith and trust in the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus and lived the promises made for them at baptism throughout their lives.

For them and for me, Jesus' resurrection reveals true life and faith are found in those places where people, often unnoticed by others, are placing their own bodies in the shape of Jesus' life. I have the privilege of seeing this lived out in the stories shared by our federal ministry chaplains who counsel and walk alongside our soldiers, sailors, airmen, guardians, coasties, marines, veterans, and the incarcerated. They support and encourage the young sailor who is up all night with a sick child, the veteran who tenderly cares for his wife who has Alzheimer's so advanced that she no longer knows his name, the soldier who prays for and seeks help for her alcoholic brother, the prisoner who speaks out about injustice in our legal system, the airman who cleans an elderly neighbor's yard, the guardian who is questioning their sexuality and place in the military, or the veteran suffering from moral injury, not knowing how to forgive themselves or others. These are the Easter places, the embodiment of the Resurrection and real holiness.

It takes courage to be Easter people. It takes faith to be resurrection people. It requires us to put aside the promise of security, to embrace uncertainty, and to trust no other truth than what we have seen and heard in Jesus, and to find our hope in living lives of embodied faithfulness. Easter reminds us that we can experience the risen Christ in God's word, sacrament, spirit, and most profoundly in the intimate and personal ways we live out our baptismal promises. Jesus reminds us that, by passing through suffering and death, he came to the resurrection, proving that what he said is true, and nothing, not even death, can separate us from God's love.

The Rt. Rev. Ann Ritonia is the VIII Bishop Suffragan to the Presiding Bishop for Armed Forces and Federal Ministries. She has served in the United States Marine Corps, Marine Corps Reserve, the V.A., and as a priest and rector to parishes of all sizes. She is a resurrection person.*

Diagnosis: Prolonged Grief Disorder

MODERATED BY

Frank Sesno

EXPERT PRESENTERS

Kenneth J. Doka, PhD, MDiv

Wendy Lichtenthal, PhD, FT

Sonya Lott, PhD

Kathy Shear, MD

The 2024 Living with Grief® program highlights prolonged grief disorder as a new addition to the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders (5th ed., text rev.) (DSM-5-TR). In this program, panelists will explore the nature of the disorder and, using a case study approach, examine the diagnosis of the condition, when to refer for treatment, and effective evidence-based approaches to treatment.

Where: Westhampton Presbyterian Church Hall, 90 Meeting House Lane, Westhampton Beach

When: Tuesday, April 16, 2024

Time: 12-2:30pm

Contact: Dina Difulco, ddifulco@eeh.org

This event is presented at: This program is hosted by East End Hospice

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of this webinar, participants will be able to

- ◆ Review the diagnostic criteria for prolonged grief disorder (PGD) in the DSM-5-TR.
- ◆ Indicate the varied ways that the DSM-5-TR acknowledges a range of complications to the grieving process and how PGD differs from other diagnoses in the DSM-5-TR.
- ◆ Recognize the risk factors for PGD and the signs that make it appropriate to refer for treatment.
- ◆ Describe current evidence-based approaches to treating PGD.
- ◆ Discuss how the PGD diagnostic criteria may influence research and the treatment of grief complications in future editions of the DSM.

CONTINUING EDUCATION

2.5 CE hours are available for a number of professionals including social workers, physicians, nurses, counselors, psychologists, case managers, pharmacists, funeral directors, and more.
